JAVARISS'S STORY

For Javariss, an Army veteran who served two tours in Iraq after September 11th, life reached a breaking point. Post-traumatic stress disorder, eviction, job loss, and mounting financial stress left him feeling overwhelmed and hopeless.

Meeting Pisgah Legal Services attorney Misty Greene, who leads the Veterans Law Program, marked a turning point. She assured Javariss they would face the challenges together and meant it.

With Misty's help, Javariss resolved fines that had cost him his driver's license simply because he could not afford to pay. Regaining his license allowed him to access critical care at the VA Medical Center in Asheville.

Misty also secured disability benefits for Javariss, earning him a 100 percent VA disability rating that reflected the severity of his PTSD.

Today, Javariss and his family have steady income, are saving for their first home, and are rebuilding their lives.

"Getting my license paved the way for everything else," he says.
